FOREWORD

The Government of Madras established the School of Indian Medicine in 1925 and started the Hospital of Indian Medicine in 1926. The hospital was intended to give clinical training to the students and as one of the medical relief centres in the city. To supply the medical needs of the hospital a pharmacy was annexed.

It is a well-known fact that there is an innumerable number of medicinal preparations scattered in various books of Indigenous Medicines, and there are also quite a large number of preparations which are traditionally used and handed over from teacher to student. The use of these preparations in diseases and their modes of preparations vary from State to State according to the local conditions and usage. In other words, there is no standardization of these excellent recipes. It is a great handicap both to a student of medicine and to a young medical practitioner. It has also become difficult to assess the value of a particular medicine in a given disease as the standards vary.

To overcome these difficulties, Captain G. Srinivasa Murthy, B.A., B.L., M.B. & C.M., who was then the Principal of the School, asked the lecturers of the various systems of medicine to select a number of preparations from various texts, which would not only be useful in various diseases but would also be acceptable to a large number of practitioners of Indigenous Medicine practising in the various parts of this State. Accordingly, late Ayurvedacharya N. Madhava Menon, A.M.A.C., and Vidwan U. P. San-kunni Menon compiled a list for Ayurveda, late Vaidyarathna C. S. Murugesu Mudaliar compiled a list for Siddha system of Medicine and Hakim Moulvi Peer Madani Sahib for the Unani system. The medicines were prepared according to these lists and used in the Hospital of Indigenous Medicine, Madras. Later, when a number of medical institutions were opened under the auspices of the Local Boards, the Government thought the pharmacopoeia adopted in the Hospital of Indigenous Medicine might be extended to other institutions and accordingly printed in 1932 "List of Raw Drugs and Medicinal Preparations for use in Indigenous Dispensaries." This list had been revised and expanded from time to time.

Thus, for more than a quarter of a century, this Pharmacopoeia had been in use and found to satisfy the needs for which it was intended. It is now found that the time has come to give a shape to this Pharmacopoeia. The list that has been in use all these years is inadequate for the needs.

of the practitioners as it gives only the names and the sources of the preparations and not the ingredients which go to make them, the method of preparation, the dose, the methods of administration and their therapeutic indications. These preparations are taken from various books and, for a young and busy practitioner, it would be difficult to search and find out the exact prescription. Moreover, as the original books are in Sanskrit for Ayurveda, in Tamil for Siddha System of Medicine and in Arabic or Urdu for Unani System, the difficulty in modern times becomes great. Therefore it was decided to compile a Pharmacopoeia in English and publish it. It is not claimed that this Pharmacopoeia is extensive and would cater to the needs of all the people. It is not the intention either to claim it as a Standard Pharmacopoeia of Indigenous Medicine. The purpose of the present volume is only to serve those practitioners who are in the employ of the State Government or the Local Boards. There would be a certain amount of uniformity in the use of these medicines in their institutions.

It was with that object an Advisory Committee with the following people was formed :—

1. Dr. M. R. Guruswami Mudaliar, B.A., M.D., Honorary Director of Indigenous Medicine.

2. Dr. M. Parankusam, L.M. & S., F.I.M.,
Principal, College of Indigenous Medicine.

3. Dr. M. K. Vaidya, Lecturer in Ayurveda.

4. Dr. M. Visweswara Sastry, H.P.I.M.,
Lecturer, Clinical Research.

5. Dr. K. Kasinathan, H.P.I.M., Lecturer in Siddha.

6. Dr. Mir Fida Hussain, H.P.I.M.,
Lecturer in Unani.

This Committee has gone through the existing list of Medicinal preparations and revised it based on the experience of these twenty-five years.

The actual work was entrusted to the following members of the Staff who formed the compilation Committee :—

1. Dr. T. Achuthan Kutty Nair,
H.P.I.M., for Ayurveda.

2. Dr. C. S. Uthamarayan, H.P.I.M.,
for Siddha.

3. Dr. S. A. Subhan, H.P.I.M., for Unani.

Dr. V. Narayanaswami, H.P.I.M., Lecturer in Ayurveda, was appointed as the General Editor of the Pharmacopoeia.
These members of the staff had done the work, in addition to their own work in the College and Hospital.

This is the first attempt made by any State Government in Indian Union to prepare and publish a standard Pharmacopoeia for the use in the State. It is hoped that in the near future it would be possible to formulate an Indian Pharmacopoeia of Indigenous Medicine which would be a standard work.

M. R. GURUSWAMI,

Honorary Director of Indigenous Medicine.

UNANI PHARMACOPOEIA

KHIVAM OR PAKKAM.

Khivam or consistency is the degree of solidity present in fluid preparation. In the Unani system of medicine, for the recognition of the exact degree of consistency or Khivam at a given moment when boiling solutions of sugar, sugarcandy or honey, experience is of paramount importance. However, the following points will be of immense help to the beginners :—

1. When the boiling solution is taken in a spoon and poured from a little distance from the surface of the said solution, it will be noticed, that the few last drops appear as off-shoots connecting the surface and simulating a single thread.

2. When a drop of the solution is taken between two fingers, mildly pressed and separated, it will be noticed, that a single thread will appear to join the contact surface of the separated fingers. This is the proper Khivam or, consistency for the preparation of 'Sherbaths' or syrups.

It should be borne in mind, that for all practical purposes, the Khivam for Majoon or confection should be of a slightly higher degree when compared with the Khivam of Sherbath and for the preparation of Khameera, it should be of still higher degree than that of Majoon.

PREPARATION OF ARAKH.

Arakh means a watery distillate, which is procured by boiling, and separating essence from the mixture of drugs soaked in water of substances which volatilize at different temperatures.

PROCESS OF DISTILLATION.

The easiest way of extracting Arakh is with the help of a Khara Ambique. 'Khara' means a vessel and Ambique means the particular kind of cover condenser used for the Distillating apparatus. (The distillating apparatus is available in the market.)

Drugs are placed in Khara and the required quantity of water is poured to soak them and is kept covered. In the morning, the Khara is placed over an oven and covered with the Ambique and finally the gap is closed with flour paste. It is allowed to boil and the Arakh collected in a big vessel. Arakh should not be filled in the bottles then and there because :

(1) the bottles may crack ;

(2) the saturation of the distillate will not be uniform, i.e., the first distilled portion will contain more essential matter than the last portion. Khara-Ambique should be kept tilted to the side discharging the Arakh and the outlet of the condenser is to be on the other side. When the water in the condenser gets sufficiently hot, it should be discharged from the outlet and cold water is to be added after plugging the discharging outlet. Actual warmth of water in the condenser and the variation in the flow of Arakh are the indications to change water.

Sometimes vapours are lost and sufficient quantity of Arakh is not procured. A watch should be kept with regard to the amount of sound produced inside the Khara-Ambique and the height of drugs and water, by tapping the sides of the Khara. There are a number of modifications in Khara Ambique, but for the various formulae enumerated herein for extracting Arakh, the aforementioned Khara Ambique will suffice for the purpose.

¶ If milk is to be added in the formula of the Arakh, it should be mixed just before boiling the whole thing.

If musk, safron, amber, etc., are in the formula, they should be kept in a muslin cloth and firmly tied to the tube discharging the Arakh.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING PILLS.

HAB.

In the Unani system of medicine Hab means a pill. Habs are solid or semi-solid globular masses. They should not be too hard or so soft as to lose shape and stick together.

In making a pill-mass the following points should be observed :—

(a) Put the drug of the smaller weight in powder form into the mortar first and triturate it with the next smallest, add the next, again triturate, and so on.

(b) The softer the mass the easier it becomes to make pills.

(c) Pills liable to crumble will keep their shape if samagh-e-Arabi is added to the mass and rubbed thoroughly to make it sticky enough to make pills.

(d) Potent extracts, gummy substances, harmful oils, etc., contained in a formula may require special attention for making pills and in those cases smear the fingers with almond oil or ghee to facilitate making pills.

SECTION VIII.

JOWHER.

‘Jowher’ means the essence of a substance. It may be a sublimate or a distillate as the case may be. It is procured by first converting a liquid into a vapour by boiling and condensing the same by cooling in another vessel, called 'receiver'. Jowher is also obtained by first vaporising a solid by heat, which is then condensed as a deposit on the surface of another vessel, 'en masse'.

The simple method of obtaining Jowher from a substance is to place it in a mud-pot with a very narrow mouth and to cover it with the mouth of a similar pot (inverted pot) the gap being closed with flour-paste. The mud-pot containing the substance is heated on a oven by mild fire. In order to condense the vapour issuing out, 4 layers of wet cloth are placed over the upper pot, care being taken to see that the clothes are always kept moist. Continuous heat should be applied for 6 to 8 hours after which the pot is allowed to cool down gradually. Finally when the upper pot is removed, it will be seen that Jowher is deposited inside the pot which should then be collected and preserved.

Small distilling apparatus may be used to prepare Jowher of small quantities of liquids.

For external use only.

Indications: Rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, gout and lumbago.

SECTION IX.

KHAMEERA.

This preparation is similar to the method of preparing 'Majoon'. In preparing 'Khameera' some drugs are finely powdered and the decoction alone of other drugs is taken for the purpose. Sugar is added to this decoction and is boiled to a high consistency. Finally the powders are added and the entire mixture is stirred well.

In case, minerals and 'Jawahirath' like Amber, Musk, etc., are added, they should be first mixed with honey and added before stirring up the mixture.

The decoction is taken by soaking the drugs in the liquids for a night and boiling down next morning to half the quantity. The decoction is filtered and taken.

SECTION XI.

KUSHTHAS.

This is a preparation of minerals. The minerals are ground with specified liquids for a specific number of days. They are made into discs and completely dried. The discs are placed in a mud cup and covered with another cup and the edges are sealed properly (gill-e-Hikmath) and dried. The vessel is kept in the centre of the cowdung cakes and charcoal fire kept all around. It is allowed to burn. The quantity of fuel for burning is determined in each case. When cooled, the medicine is powdered and ground again. The same process is repeated as many times as required.

The medicine is not generally used immediately. It is kept for about six months before it is used. If it is to be used urgently, then, it should be buried in a sealed vessel in moist ground and then used.
